

October 1, 2007

ARAGON CONSTRUCTION COMPLETES ROBERT HALF FLAGSHIP OFFICES

ARAGON CONSTRUCTION, SERVING AS Construction Manager, has just completed Robert Half's expansion and renovation of their flagship offices at 245 Park Avenue. Robert Half, the world's largest specialized staffing firm, will now be utilizing the entire 25th floor--38,000 square feet--of the Brookfield Properties building, a 1.6 million square foot 46-story office tower located in Midtown Manhattan.

Robert Half has been occupying four-fifths of the 25th floor since 1999. It shares the Class A building--which occupies one full square block near Grand Central Terminal. "The company is experiencing tremendous growth and success, and also saw this as an opportunity to update the entire infrastructure," notes Project Superintendent Bruce Herrel.

Working together with TPG Architecture, Aragon carried out the project in four phases. "We were able to do this without disrupting any of the employees' daily activities or meetings through constant communication with the project managers," explains Herrel.

Renovations and additions include refurbished conference rooms, cubicles, pantries and general office space, as well as new interview rooms, elevator lobby and IT room. The completed space features vaulted ceilings, high-end millwork, window treatments, new carpeting, upgraded electrical and mechanical infrastructures and the installation of nine new supplemental air conditioning units.

"Robert Half's new space is terrific," says Steve Yavrouian, Senior Director,

TPG Architecture. The elegant space employs marble walls in the elevator lobby, white lacquered walls and furniture in the reception area, and glass-fronted offices. The Robert Half logo and all their operating group logos are on display in the glass entrance way.

"Because we make a concentrated effort and deliver every time," says Aragon President and Founder Alex Getelman, "Robert Half trusted us to build out their new space, complete the project on time, within budget, and not disrupt them during the renovation." TPG Senior Partner Michel Fiechter says: "Because Aragon put forth a compelling bid, and placed an emphasis on personal attention to detail, they won the project," he says. "Aragon has the ability to displace an incumbent construction firm." ■