

September 14, 2011

Aragon completes interior build-out

Aragon Construction recently completed a 28,000 s/f interior build-out for financial service firm Quinlan Financial Group at Rubie Corporate Plaza in Melville, Long Island.

Aragon worked with TPG Architecture to deliver the project, which encompasses the entire second floor of the Class A office building. Quinlan, which is relocating from Commack, NY, is the first tenant to occupy the building.

The new space includes approximately 50 offices, six conference rooms, training rooms and an interior open work area. The layout includes a clear flow of circulation throughout the entire floor and accommodates enclosed suites for different agencies within Quinlan.

A neutral color palette of browns and tans features throughout. “We wanted to combine the tradition of a well-established financial company with modern era technology,” said Michael R. Brandt of TPG.

The entire space features DIRT office fronts, Shaw carpeting and a variety of Waldner’s office furniture. The project utilized low VOC paints and carpets — which enhance the indoor air quality — while all ceiling tiles and carpets were manufactured using high levels of recycled materials.

“The new office for Quinlan Financial Group provides them with the ideal combination of both style and substance in a prime location,” said Richard Hartz, executive vice president of Aragon Construction.

Macro Consultants LLC served as the Owner’s Rep and Project Manager of the entire project